POLICEMAN KILLS NEGRO

Dave Milton Meets Death When He Attempts to Draw Gun on Patrolman Fred Link.

SHOOTING IN CLAYSVILLE.

Slain Negro Threatened Paramour, Who Appealed to Officer-Coroner's Inquest.

Dave Milton, a negro, was shot and instantly kiklled yesterday morning at about 11:30 o'clock by Patrolman Fred Link, after he had made an attempt to draw a revolver on the officer, who was acting in the discharge of his

The killing took place in the negro suberb of Claysville and was the result of the official attempting to stop the negro who it is alleged had theatened to do harm to a negro woman by the name of Mag Overtree, with whom he was living.

Appeals to Officer.

Yesterday morning about 11 o'clock the negro woman applied to Patrolman Link to accompany her to Claysville and assist her in securing some clothing in the house where she and Milton lived as she was going to leave him for fear he would do her bodily harm. According to the woman Milsions and had yesterday morning used sions and had yesterday morning used threatening words toward her.

Patrolman Link met the woman at the corner of Vine and Winnie streets, while riding in the delivery wagon of C. P. Cook & Co., and in company with James Day the driver of the automobile. Thinking the woman was loitering on the street he asked her what business she had in that vicinity whhen the woman told her story

Went to Claysville.

Link agreed to accompany the woman to Claysville in an effort to secure her clothing and when they reached the home of Milton he was coming out on the street. Leaving the woman he walked rapidly in the direction of Milton and commanded him to stop. The negro seeing the officer, paid no attention to the command, whereupon Link asked him to wait as the woman desired to get her clothing. He then broke into a run, going in the direction of the Louisville & Nashville railroad crossing, when Link told him if he did not stop he would put him under arrest.

According to the story of Link, the negro looked behind him and said, "I'll kill you, you d— white s—, before you'll ever arrest me," and he continued to run in a stooped position, at the same time attempting to get his revolver out of his belt.

Seeing this move Patrolman Link drew his revolver and fired, one shot, which took effect in Milton's body. He dropped the revolver which he held in his and after walking about ten steps dropped dead in front of the door of Nannie Field. The revolver belonging to the negro was picked up in front of the home of George Ellis, colored.

The shooting took place in view of but few witnesses, but a large number were attracted by the sound of the shot and soon a number gathered around the scene of the killing. Link went to the negro who was lying on his face in the road and turned him over. He was later taken into his

Feared Officers Victim.

Coroner Rudolph Davis and Dr. William Kenney were soon on the scene and the former order the body moved. Dr. Kenney removed the bullet which was turned over to Coroner Davis together with the revolver belonging to the negro. The weapon which was a 32-calibre U. S. contained five loaded cartridges.

The Overtree woman stated yesterday in the presence of a number of witnesses that she was afraid of Milton, who had threatened her life several times and frequently whipped her. It is alleged that three days ago the negro shot three times at her, the difficulty between them arising over some trivial matter. She said she feared to live with him any longer and was preparing to get her clothing that she might take her departure.

Body Prepared for Burial
Milton came to this city about a year ago from Shorter, Ala., and has since been employed as a section hand in the Louisville & Nashville railroad yards and as a laborer on railroad construction. He was aged about twenty-five years.

The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Mr. George W. Davis where it was prepared for burial and until communication can be established with his relatives it will remain there. It is said Milton's father resides at Shorter and a telegram was sent him yesterday afternoon. It is probable the remains will be shipped to that place

Varnish Candles.

A good way to make your candles last longer than usual is the following says the Montreal Star: Hold each candle by the wick and give it a coat of white varnish. Then lay candles away for a day or so to harden. The varnish prevents the grease from running and preserves the life of the candle many hours.

GIRL OWNS AND RUNS

BIG WESTERN RANCH.

Ten years ago Miss Helen Lynch was a student in the High School at Omaha. Today she owns and personally operates a cattle ranch of the air and hence adds more of this 10,000 acres near Hyanis, Neb., on which are thousands of cattle and 100 soil. We must look to the so-called lehorses and "cow ponies." The ranch guminous plants to perform this funcis known as the "O-H," and cattle tion. long-range management for the ranch and live on it.

And she did. Her father had many friends out on the range, and they were glad to advise her. She was able to separate good from the bad. So she prospered and the ranch grew from the small affair left by the father to the 10,000-acre domain of today. Last year Helen cut 1,100 tons of hay, worth in Omaha more than $15,000. At the beginning there was considerable trouble with cattle "rustlers." A determined to wipe them out, and several of her cowboys lent their aid. Since then no cattle have ever been

'rustled" on that ranch. Miss Helen is an expert horsewoman and is in the saddle almost constantly. She is her own manager, buys her own cattle and takes them to market. She uses a big "Miles City" saddle, carries a lariat at the pummel and a revolver in a holster. She wears a divided skirt, a pair of boots that reach to her knees, and a large soft white hat. She can use the lariat with any cow boy on the range and is a good shot. She is the best "hazer" around Hyannis. The hazer on a ranch is the rider who steers a bucking broncho that Lot of bedding, blankets, pillows, is being broken. He follows at the heels of the regular "buster," and when the broncho is seen to be headed for a barbed wire fence or any other danger, he must so maneuver as to push his own mount between it and the threatened danger. The job is one for a full-sized man. Miss

Lynch is the only woman "hazer" in the county. Miss Lynch's main object in carrying a lariat is to assist an animal in distress. Steers often get mired in the mud around the water holes and will perish if left to themselves. Miss Helen casts her rope over its horns and with the other end of the rope securely fastened to the pommel of her saddle pulls the animal out.

The recent blizzard came on suddenly and swept across the plains at the rate of fifty miles an hour. Miss Lynch and such of her cowboys as she could reach mounted their horses and set out after the great herd which they knew would soon start drifting before the snowy blasts. Before the riders arrived at that part of the range in which the herd had been grazing the animals were going at full speed. The cowboys and Miss Lynch went after them and mile after mile the race went on., the riders trying to head off the frightened animals. Finally the cows and calves gave up the flight and suffered themselves to be herded, but the steers kept on going. Next day the blizzard was over, but on all sides were piled great snow drifts some twenty feet deep. Many miles to the south the stampeded herd was found in ravin and es draws. Many were frozen to death; others were so deep in the drifts that nothing but their heads and horns could be seen. Lariats were thrown over their horns and the steers pulled out, Miss Lynch doing her share of the work.

His "Maiden" Name!

It is said at certain seasons in Scotland, when the fishing is not very brisk, the fishermen act as caddies. and are easily recognized by their costume, a woolen jersey and trousers braced up to the armpits. One of these was asked his name by the gentleman for whom he was carrying, and the reply was: "Weel, sir, hereabouts they maistly ca' me 'Breeks,' but ma 'maiden' name is 'Broon.'"

RYE AS A COVER CROP PREVENTS LAND WASHING

Kentucky is a land largely made up of rolling, hilly, or even mountainous areas with most of its soil of a clay formation. These two conditions present a most favorable combination for washing and in nearly every part of the state one becomes impressed with the terrible damage done annually by the gullying of sloping areas caused by heavy rains. Corn is Kentucky's principal crop, especially from the standpoint of area planted, and this crop after thorough loosening of the soil from cultivation during the summer leaves the ground in perfect condition for washing and subsequent One Year $2.00 - Six Months .. $1.00 gullying. The most effective way of preventing this great damage to our farms is by never leaving these cultivated areas open to the heavy rains of fall and winter, this being prevent-Display advertisements, $1.00 per ed by providing some growing crop to inch for first time; 50 cents per inch cover the ground during these sea-

The plant most in favor in this State as a cover crop is rye. This is because of the relative cheapness of seed, the lateness at which rye can be sown, the comparative certainty of getting a stand, its degree of immunity to winter freezing, and the pasturage which the crop furnishes before plowing under preparatory to the next ear's crop. Rye as a cover crop may be sown in the corn field any time from September fifteenth to October fifteenth, the earlier seeding often furnishing good late fall and winter pasturage. It would be an excellent practice if each farmer would annually sow enough rye as a regular crop to provide sufficient seed for planting all areas on the farm which would otherwise be left naked during the winter.

Doubtless the only shortcoming of rye as a cover crop is that it does not fed upon nitrogen taken directly from valuable element of plant food to the tion. Hairy, or winter vetch perhaps best supplements this need and can be ing the quantity of rye seed and sow-Miss Lynch did not graduate from ing during September, preferably not Rye and vetch after mixing can be bevoted herself upon the death of her sown from the grain drill, in which case from two to three pecks of rye Thomas Lynch left a little property and about twenty pounds of vetch per sembling those of alfalfa in shape and a blue clustering blossom which appear shortly before the ripening of the rye. Its reclining nature makes the rye of great benefit in its support for with its tendrils the vetch climbs nearly to the full height of the rye. The feeding value of vetch is excellent me," said Helen. "I'm going out to and more Kentucky farmers should test its merit as a cover crop, with

Killed by Flying Splinter. A curious death befell a child at St.

Die, France, the other day. A man was cutting up tree trunks for firing. He was splitting some of the large ones by boring a hole, putting in a little gunpowder, and exploding it. A girl of eight watched him from behind a first-floor window which closed. Suddenly a trunk exploded, and a splinter flew up, smashed through the window, and pierced the child's heart. She died immediately.

SUPREME COURT TO ATTACK TOBACCO POOLING ASSOCIATION

The fate of tobacco pooling associations as well as other framers' organizations organized to get better prices will come before the Supreme Court in October, when an attack will be made upon the constitutionality of the Kentucky statute legalizing tobacco pooling organizations. It is also said to be in conflict with the Sherman anti-trust law.

The joint tobacco commission of Con gress, investigating the effect of foreign governmental purchases of American tobacco, is considering a proposal to reccommend to Virginia growers the formation of pooling organizations, similar to those in Kentucky, as the only method of getting a living price out of their tobacco crops. Should the Supremee Court annul the Kentucky statute; the pooling idea might not be available to the Virginia and Carolina growers. The exact status of tobacco pooling organizations has never been before the Supreme Court. It is said that the decision in the case will apply equally to al farmers' aliances formed to get beter prices.

"BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER"

Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Thinness of the blood, or anaemia, is common in young folks as well as old. Especially is it the case with those who work in illy ventilated factories—or those who are shut the case with those who work in tily ventilated factories—or those who are shet up indoors in winter time with a coal stove burning up the oxygen or emitting carbonic (oxide) gas. This blood, or blood which lacks the red blood corpuscles, in anaemic people may have been caused by lack of good fresh air breathed into lungs, or by poor digestion or dyspepsia. Sometimes people suffer intenze pain over the heart which is not heart disease at all, but caused by indigestion. RUINOUS COURSE DEPLORED

LEXINGTON, KY. - Upon the ground that proof presented failed to this company by the prosecution of show that property rightfully taxable had not been listed or that any property at issue had been omitted from and other interests of the State we assessment, the proceeding of John Howard, revenue agent for the State at large, against the Burley Tobacco Company, in which recovery of sixty thousand dollars in taxes and twelve thousand dollars in fees was sought, was thrown out of court. This was the first of forty-five similar suits brought by the Revenue Agent in Kentucky to be heard.

The laconic announcement of Judge J. Percy Scott: "I have heard plenty read and plenty said; this case is dismissed," which answered a suggestion from counsel for the plaintiff that he give a careful reading to cases that that been cited and also decided a notable cause, put too great a strain upon the feelings of those who had watched the course of the hearing for two days, and the county court room resounded with applause.

It was shown conclusively also that the law required that the property be assessed at the residence of the real and beneficial owner.

Victory Is Important.

The victory of the society was regarded as of large moment in that the in which they have been; and most Fayette County case occupied the position of keystone in the series of suits. The tobacco of numerous other counties was delivered here for sale and commingled wth local crops; also this is the home office of the Burley Tobacco Society and the Burley Tobacco Company. Lively interest in the action was evinced by business men and bankers of Lexington as well as a host of growers, and a number of those who applauded the decision had participated in the meeting of the Commercial Club when the course of the Revenue Agent was deplored and the drag net suits he had brought were branded as unnecessary and hurtful, jeopardizing the tobacco interests of the State.

Litigation Hurtful.

It was conceded that in this action, the first to be tried, the Revenue Agent would bring his most effective resources to bear, and it was predicted that the result would have important bearing upon other suits. The litigation has tied up three hundred and sixty thousand dollars in the hands of the organization, and growers will acclaim final removal of this embargo when the last of the cases has been disposed of.

Taxes claimed in the forty-five suits aggregate $972,530.85, and in addition the fees anticipated by the Revenue Agent and his attorneys reach the enormous sum of $176,745.15, making a grand total of $1,149,276.

Claims By Counties. In each of the suits the allegation is made that tobacco in the pools of 1906, 1907 and 1909 and proceeds were omitted from taxation for the years 1907 to 1911, inclusive. Huge Drag-Net Cast.

"But there are still glaring evils under the present system, some of which are revealed by the innumerable suits instituted by John Howard, of Middleboro, a revenue agent for the Stateat-Large, against the Burley Tobacco property, for taxes on which suits Involved in the outcome was the were brought, is some sixty millions be some six hundred thousand dolto recompose the revenue agent and his attorneys. The amount sued for er all possible contingencies, like a drag-net with which the fisherman hopes to catch everything in the pond.

It is most unfortunate for the Burley Tobacco Society, for the burley tobacco growers, for the State and for the City of Lexington, that these suits have been instituted in the way unfortunate that there is apparent! ground for the charge that their purpose is not so much to collect the amount of taxes due, if any are due, as to hamper and harass the Burley Tobacco Society.

The Just And The Unjust.

"There are forty thousand members of the Burley Tobacco Society who pledged their crops of 1911. Many of them undoubtedly listed their tobacco for taxation, as they are required to do by law, it being the duty of the owner of tobacco to list it for taxation. The suits, if successful, would require the society to pay out of its general fund, taxes on all the tobacco in its possession on the day on which it was required to be listed, so that those who had listed their tobacco for taxation and paid the taxes would be mulcted, as would also those who had not listed their tobacco. There are members of the Society who live in Indiana and Ohio who will, if these suits are successful, be required to contribute to pay the taxes collected in the forty counties of Kentucky, and Address..... the penalty, which would go to the revenue agent and his attorneys. 'The Burley Tobacco Society has on hand ready for distribution some three hundred thousand dollars. It is, of course, impossible for it to distribute that amount as long as these suits are on the docket unsettled.

"It Seems Curious." "It seems curious that these suits should have been instituted against the Burley Tobacco Society, an organization formed for the purpose of aiding the tobacco growers to secure a reasonable price for their product, instead of having the American Tobacco Company secure that product at its own price, when no similar suits had been previously brought against the warehouses of Louisville, in which for years there have been enormous amounts of tobacco stored, nor any similar suit brought against the Dark Tobacco Association, of Southwestern Kentucky, which was organized before the Burley Tobacco Society. It is further a matter of comment that Judge Lewis Apperson, of Mt. Sterling, the attorney for the revenue agent, Mr. Howard, who has instituted these suits, has always been a tiolent opponent of the Burley Tobacco Bociety. Judge Apperson grew a crop of tobacco, which was guarded at public expense, in the cut-out year, and because of the pool of 1906 and 1907, and the cut-out, which he vigorously opposed and bitterly denounced, sold his tobacco at a much higher price than he would have otherwise been as attorney of record for the State revenue agent who institutes suits, the effect, if not the purpose of which, is to harass and to hamper the Burley

HOW THE EXPRESSION "SHOW ME" ORIGINATED

A little while ago a well-intentioned critic of St. Louis informed the business men that their city had outgrown No time like the present to get well. its stuck-in-the-mud slogan, "You'll strength or ambition, don't put off do-have to show me," and that the first step in the direction of progress must be the selection of a less slow slogan. A few of those who read his speech Tona Vita is what your system in the daily papers protested that "show me" was never in any sense not sure whence it had come, nor why They could remember only vaguely the first time they heard it, but they were positive it belonged to the State of Missouri, and not to any one city, assuredly not to the metropolis on the Mississippi.

A gentleman with a fondness for delving in the dust-laden records of the Historical Society has now appeared with the information that the challenge, "You'll have to show me," is the corruption of the name of a famous Indian chieftain of the Sioux "Resolved, That we deplore the eyes widened, and, drawing a long heads from the Mississippi to the Misthe historic old French town, Portage des Sioiux. Yumus Shome, it is said, is buried at Westport, in Jackson county, and his name-carelessly pronounced "You mus' show me," has passed into the vernacular of the State.

It is a pretty story, and one that we ought to permit ourselves the pleasure of believing. But, alas, it is a practical age, and sooner or later some stickler for the fact is sure to come forward with the proof that there never was any such chief as Yumus Shome. Several Killings to His Record While in Prison, for One of Which He Hanged.

Folsom, Cal.—"Jake" Oppenheimer, known as "The Criminal of the Century" and "The Tiger Man," because of his murderous ferocity, was put to death on the gallows here for the murder of a fellow-convict in Folsom

Oppenheimer was probably one of age. He had at least four murders to make a selection for his office. to his credit and innumerable murderous assaults. He commenced his criminal career when a boy. Discharged by the superintendent of a telegraph company in San Francisco, he thereupon shot and killed the of-

Oppenheimer, in some way, "beat the case," but three years later was sentenced to fifty years' imprisonment for robbing a drug store. This severe sentence was given him because of evidence showing that he was a dangerous and habitual criminal. A man named Ross testified against Oppenheimer at his trial, at which time "The Man Tiger' 'swore to be revenged.

Not long after Oppenheimer's arrival at Folsom prison, Ross was sent there as a convict. Oppenheimer waited for him at the gate and stabbed him to death before the guards could interfere. A short time later Oppenheimer murdered a guard named Mc-Donald. As punishment he was placed in solitary confinement, but obtaining a file he made his way out and attacked a fellow-convict named John Wilson with a butcher knife. Wilson died a few days later.

In 1901 the state legislature passed a law imposing the death penalty upon any prisoner who should make an assault upon a prison official or a fellow prisoner. Under this law, Oppenheimer was tried in October, 1907, for the murder of Wilson. He was found guilty, and was sentenced to die on June 6, 1908.

How Plague Ship Captain Secured an Engineer.

Deluded Man Was Later Startled by Elaborate Courtesies of His Chief and Succession of Burials

at Sea.

New York.-The favorite story of Capt. Walter Ancker, superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad's floating equipment at pier No. 22, foot of Jay street, North river, who died some time ago, was of his experience on a plague ship.

Ancker was assistant engineer on the German steamer Minister Achenbach, which lay at Nikolaiev, on the Bug river. One day he and Captain Kahmke were discussing bubonic plague in the cabin on the bridge deck when Captain Stringer of the British tramp Sea Gull came alongside in one of his boats, very much excited.

"A hundred pounds in gold for an engineer!" shouted the captain. "I'm short of engineers. I'll drop him off at Constantinople and there you can pick him up."

Captain Kahmke advised Ancker to accept the offer, saying the Achenbach would be at Constantinople in about a week. Ancker accepted it and turned over half of the 100 pounds in gold to his captain for safe-keeping and tucked the other half inside his Inside of half an hour the young engineer was aboard the Sea Gull, which already had steam up in the Bug. She was low down in the water. She had just returned from India, and her crew embraced Lascars, Russians, Finns and English. All the officers were English.

The captain was unusually hospitable. He came to the engine room, bringing a flask of brandy and a box of cigars to the engineer and asking him not to leave the engine room and not to spare the cigars and brandy. It looked suspicious—such liberal hospitality.

At four bells of the first watch Engineer Ancker decided to steal a little sleep in a comfortable armchair which the skipper had sent below. He stepped first into the alleyway, where were the berths labeled respectively "Engineer," "First Engineer" and 'Second Assistant Engineer." In the first room he saw the form of a man in the bunk. In room No. 2, darker than the first, he touched a man apparently asleep, a bottle of brandy by his side. From the bunk in the third room Ancker grabbed a blanket and wrapped himself in it in his chair in the engine room.

"What's the trouble?" the new engineer asked a sailor.

"Do you think it is measles?" returned the man contemptuously.

Questioning the sailor more closely. Ancher learned that nine out of the crew of 36 were already dead, including the regular engineer, the first assistant and the second assistant, whose bunks the understudy had visited during the previous night. Twice again on that day there were splashes alongside. Ancker took frequent small nips of brandy, smoked cigars, drank boiled water only and ate sparingly.

Ancker bribed a bumboatman to set him ashore at Pera on the opposite shore.

FINDS FAILINGS OF FICTION

Boy Who Sought to Shine Way to Fortune Arrested by New York Policeman.

New York.-Louis Brown read all of Horatio Alger, Jr.s' books. There he found out that the quickest way to become a millionaire was to start as a bootblack or to sell papers. So he came to New York with a bootblack box slung over his arm and with all of his twelve years of experience and the precepts of his favorite author to guide him.

"Please, sir," he said to Patrolman Burke at Graham avenue and Broadway, Brooklyn, "can you tell me where is the proper place for me to start out to be a millionaire?"

There are some things New York policemen do not know, so Patrolman Burke took Louis to the Stagg street police station on a charge of vagrancy. Then the boy was sent to the Children's society, in Schermerhorn street, where he will stay while his ambitions are investigated. Louis said he lived in Providence.

Asks Ex-Wife to His Funeral.

Worcester, Mass.—Leaving a note to his sister, Mrs. Henry Collins, with whom he lived, directing that $35 be given to the divorced wife with which to purchase a mourning gown and that she be asked to be chief mourner at his funeral, Ferdinand Helfenstein turned on the gas in his bedroom and died. Mrs. Helfenstein obtained a divorce from her husband last January and since then he had been despondent. Helfenstein left a note for his former wife, but its contents have not been disclosed.

Offers Big Inducements.

Findlay, O.-A sun shade, a riding cultivator, plenty of sterilized ice water to drink and ice cream every day are the inducements offered to the man who will take a job on the farm of H. B. Clark near here. Clark states that he has hundreds of acres of corn dying for want of cultivation. He agrees to pay higher wages than any other farmer in the county.

WAS LURED BY GOLD Truck Replaced Three Teams

In eleven months this three-ton KisselKar Truck covered in actual service 4,760 miles at a fuel cost of $1.08 per day. Manned by a driver and one helper, it replaced three teams of horses. The average daily burden was 37 17.20ths tons. It carried an average load of four tons--one ton overload---but in the entire period named, was laid up only two and one-half hours for repairs.

"We can recommend the KisselKar Truck and assure that it lives up to its guarantee," writes Thomas E. Fleischer, manager of the Sheboygan Lime Works. Two and one-half hours for repairs, carrying over 37 tons per day is a record worthy of notice. KisselKar Trucks cost little to maintain and are economical to operate because the problem is solved in KisselKar construction. Note these striking KisselKar features-Simple engine-easy to operate-reserve powerexcess capacity-differential lock preventing one drive wheel absorbing all the power on slippery places, and stalling the truck-four speed transmitters geared up-fourth speed permitting high speed when desired without racing engine; 15 to 20 per cent. lower fuel consumption than average trucks-light spring suspension for power plant, heavy spring suspension for load—gauge that weighs load—greatest accessibility—easy control—larger brake drums, and extra powerful brakes—special bodies designed to meet every need.

KisselKar Grucks

1500 lbs.-1-2-3-4 and 5 Tons

In the range of capacity, 1500 lbs. to 5 tons, you can find just the type that fills your requirements-and with the KisselKar Truck goes the KisselKar Service, which is the mauufacturer's guarantee of satisfaction.

KisselKar Service means taking off your hands all of the mechanical details. A special service building is maintained in this city for the benefit of KisselKar owners. The KisselKar service is a broad and comprehensive arrangement between manufacturer and owners that cares for the car, maintains efficiency, retards depreciation and minimizes upkeep. This service is a valuable consideration in the purchase of a power wagon. Investigate it.

Ask us to analyze your present horse haulage ss compared to motor haulage. The result will be interesting.

If we told you of a crop which brought a cash income the year around, made the soil richer every year and required no skilled labor to handle it.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, Ohio Wouldn't That Be The Crop For You?

You have this opportunity. The Tri-State Butter Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, will buy your cream the year around, pay spot cash for every shipment and give you a market that is responsible, safe and permanent, and proven so to more than 5,000 shippers.

No skilled labor is required to ship cream. Separate the milk, ship when convenient to you—twice a week in the summer season and not quite so often in the winter time.

Every cow will pay cash for what she eats, yielding a revenue of from $50.00 to $90.00 per year, besides adding $25.00 worth of fertility to your soil.

Ship your cream to-day, or write for free trial cans.

THE COLUMBIA TODAY.

"King Rene's Danghter," the three reel Thannouser picture which will be shown at the Columbia this afternoon and night is one of the sweetest stories ever cold in moving pictures. It is a poetic drama ,the scenes being laid in Denmark in the fifteenth centuy, and the Inanhouser cast of actors. headed by Miss Maude Fealy, who plays the leading part of "Iolanthe", the King's daughter, brings around one of the sweetest romantic stories of ancient Denmark, showing how the gentleness of "Tristan," her lover, mingled with his kindness and love terminates in a happy ending to one whose life had been one of sorrow.

The Bank of England has been under military protection every night since 1780.

RESPONDING PROMPTLY.

There has been no finer evidence of the splendid generosity of the Bourbon county people than the way in which they are meeting the payments on the new Young Men's Christian Asociation building. Earlier in the week notices were mailed to all subscribers calling attention to the ffac that next Monday, Sept . 1st, is the date when the first installment is to be paid. It is gratifying to note, however, that the same spirit which manifested itself in the campaign last June is still present and many of those who made pledges have already paid them, and nearly half of those paying paid the full amount of their subscriptions. It is hoped that this will continue so that the work on the new building may be hastened. The pledges are payable at the Bourbon Bank and Trust Company, and it is expected that practically -Mrs. C. B. Dubois, of Cincinnati, all subscribers wil either call and pay or mail checks before the end of the
